One of the key features of Windows® XP clean-up is the ability to maintain a separate folder structure within Windows XP to isolate old files that may be left behind in an installation. If you have a lot of old data you want to get rid of, you can save yourself the trouble of manually deleting these old files by installing Windows XP clean-up. Cleanup 2010 removes the Windows XP operating system completely from your hard drive. Please note that Windows XP clean-up cannot erase a Windows XP installation from a thumb drive or any other removable media. Windows XP clean-up is the easiest way to do a complete system cleanup. You can create a separate "clean" folder by selecting the XP operating system as your primary operating system in the Windows XP clean-up wizard. Windows XP clean-up can be performed from within Windows XP, Windows 2000, or Windows Vista. Features: Uninstall Windows XP and reinstall Windows XP clean Create a separate folder that contains the old files from your XP installation Windows XP clean-up removes any programs that you installed on your Windows XP system. In addition to the wizard you can also use Windows XP clean-up to create an "Old Files" folder on the hard disk to store files and folders that you wish to keep from your Windows XP system. When you run Windows XP clean-up again, any new files and folders you create within the "Old Files" folder will be automatically deleted along with the Windows XP operating system. Nero BackItUp 10 is the first back up and recovery software that can recover up to 50% of your data, and offers backup and recovery in one simple and intuitive interface.
